Comfortable Computing

Computing should never hurt. However, the reality is often very different for today's computer users—people just like you. Find out ways to make your work as comfortable as possible by getting ergonomics information that's easy to use.

Join the Uprising

Ergotron has influenced healthy computing for over three decades using scientific research as a basis. We've collaborated with global thought leaders and a community of "standers" in order to raise awareness and reduce sedentary behavior.

Get Into Your Comfort Zone

Neutral Posture + Voluntary Motion + Rest = Comfortable Computing

That's the ergonomic equation and it begins with you. Find your zones by understanding the details of this simple, three-part concept.

Sit Less. Stand More.

Better health with standing desks

Office workers across the U.S. are sitting almost all day, which contributes to an excessively sedentary lifestyle.

The answer: Break up your sitting time by standing and moving around a bit. More and more, schools and businesses are understanding the benefits of adapting to a sit-stand environment.

Freedom to Stand
See testimonials from creative professionals @ JustStand.org

If you're one of the millions of workers worldwide who spend their working day sitting, you owe it to yourself to get moving.
